Flag Day on Wednesday June 14th.
Let's not forget to honor "Old Glory."

Fourth of July will be here before we know it. When Easter gets the "procession" started our American holidays with the accompaniment of School and College Commencements keep things going rather lively until Autumn comes again.

Next week will be the "big" week for the Republican Party in Chicago. The National Republican Convention will open on Wednesday. Senator Warren G. Harding will be the temporary chairman. Balloting for candidates is not probable before Thursday afternoon or Friday morning. Ohio's candidate, Theodore E. Burton will be presented by Governor Frank B. Willis. As Ohioans we are loyal to Burton and hope that he secures the nomination. But we are not forgetting that there are other able men in the Republican party, men upon whom we can rely for wise and efficient leadership for our nation; and if it should so happen that "our man" fails to get the nomination, Ohioans are not the kind that act the baby part and refuse to "play any Ohio raises men!"

CHILDREN OF DRINKERS
ARE HANDICAPPEDJuvenile Court Official Gives Interesting Experience.

Dayton, O.—(Special.)—Marie J. Burch, probation officer in the juvenile court of Montgomery county, has rendered an opinion based on conditions as disclosed by the cases brought before that court. In the letter this probation officer says:

"At least 75 per cent of the cases brought into this court may be attributed directly or indirectly to intoxicating liquors as the cause. Almost every family with which we have to deal are in the habit of having beer at home and allowing the children to drink it. The children of parents addicted to the use of intoxicating liquor are usually incorrigible. This view, I may say, is based on the observation of children whose parents are moderate drinkers. In the home of the confirmed drunkard the children degenerate rapidly."

OFFER NOT ACCEPTED

Moving Picture Magazine Makes Proposition to Liquor Dealers.

New York.—(Special.)—Following the action of the National Liquor Dealers' association in adopting resolutions protesting that the moving picture industry untruthfully magnifies barroom scenes, thus prejudicing its patrons against the liquor traffic, liquor journals have opened fire on the movies for what is termed their injurious to the saloon interests. The Photoplay Magazine for May comes back with this shot, which staggers the "whole liquor camp."

"We hereby offer to run a set of pictures fully descriptive of all big thoughts, high ideals, public spirited actions, or types of splendid manhood, which the saloon business may have evoked or will evoke."

The offer, needless to say, has not been accepted.

Brewery Did Not Want Drinker.

Cincinnati, O.—(Special.)—The daughter of John Moerlein, president of the Moerlein Brewing company of this city, in suing her husband for divorce, charges among other things that because of his drinking proclivities her father dismissed him from service in his brewing company. The brewers complain when other lines of business and industry refuse jobs to men who drink. They want others to take care of the derelicts made by booze.

Washington's Big Saving. The state of Washington is figuring her savings under prohibition. Under license the drink bill of the state was estimated at $2,750,000 a month. Permits to import liquor for personal use are issued under prohibition. In January of this year 3,777 of such permits were issued. In the full quantity and the maximum cost these permits involved the expenditure of $10,000, or less than half of 1 per cent of the amount paid for liquor under license. No wonder the people of Washington are delighted with the big saving.

Only Imaginary.

How true it is that most of our troubles are purely imaginary. For instance, we can read what one of these newspaper-syndicate doctors says and be right on the verge of coming down with double pneumonia or complete nervous breakdown or whatever he happens to mention on that particular day, but after a good night's sleep we always find that it wasn't for chills and pyrexia we shouldn't have any trouble at all.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

The 1916 Corn Contest
Is On--Are You In?From Ohio to Our National Capital
For a Week.

GET READY TO GO!!!

A FUTURE CORN BOY.

Have you a boy?

Has your tenant a boy?

Has your neighbor a boy?

Has the farm a boy on it or near it?

Has the boy read revised Rule No. 3? Have you read it? Here it is.

"The Contestant shall assist in doing or shall do all the work on the acre, such as planning, manuring, fertilizing, plowing, preparing the seed bed, and all the other work up to and including the planting; but from the time the corn is planted up until the time of husking the Contestant shall do all the work on the acre. The Contestant may have assistance in husking the corn."

It permits a boy who has simply assisted in the work of the cornfield up to and including the planting to go into that field and select an acre to cultivate in the Corn Growing Contest.

Farmers, give your boy a chance in the best field. Of course, spring is backward, but it is backward for the other fellow, too. Sunny days are coming. If the corn is properly cultivated, sun, rain, soil and the Almighty will do the rest. If the boy will do the cultivating right, he might just as well wash his face and comb his hair now and get ready to go with us on the trip to Washington.

No matter what county he is in, he has from twelve to fifteen chances to win a trip in the Corn Growing Contest to Washington, including the statewide and local trips.

Boys, send in your entry right away. If you do not have one, all out and mail this coupon to J. R. Clarke, Director of Junior Contests, Columbus, O.

Date _____, 1916.

To J. R. Clarke, Director of Junior Contests, Columbus, O.:

Dear Sir—I desire to enter the 1916 Corn Growing Contest for the trip to Washington. I wish the entry blanks and rules.

CRIME AGAINST CHILDHOOD.

Bellevue, O.—(Special.)—Superintendent Gillespie of the Belmont County Children's home says in a statement that when Belmont county was dry, the number of children in the home decreased until there were but 48. When the county became wet the number of children in the home began to increase, and now there are 118 inmates. Superintendent Gillespie further says that 90 per cent of the children in the home are from homes of drunkards.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT.

During the year 1912 there were 2,689 children deserted in Cincinnati. The entire number of children in the county children's homes of the state on the last day of August, 1914, according to official records, was 2,540. It will be seen that more children were deserted in the wettest city in the state in a year than were in all the children's homes of the state on the date given.

INTERESTING FACTS
FROM DRY FINDLAYBetter and More Prosperous
Without Saloons.

Findlay, O.—(Special.)—The people of Findlay believe they have the driest city in Ohio, and also believe it to be as prosperous as any city of its size, wet or dry, in the state. The city has been without saloons for more than seven years. Notwithstanding it has been without saloon revenue for this period, it has the lowest tax rate of any city in Ohio. Last year Findlay paved twelve streets at a cost of $157,558. This year fifteen streets will be paved at an estimated expense of $130,000. For the year ending March 31, 1916, building permits were issued totaling $445,098. The receipts of the Findlay postoffice increased $10,000 the past year over the year previous.

The difference in the moral tone of Findlay may be noted by a comparison of the police records now with the records of twenty-five years ago. Last year there were 324 arrests in Findlay, while in 1890 the number was 1,644. In March of this year the number of arrests for all causes was 19. In March twenty-five years ago the number was 147.

The dry vote in the city has increased through the years. In 1908 and 1911, when the county voted dry under county option, the city of Findlay returned a wet majority. In the statewide campaign of 1914 the city gave a dry majority of 187. Following the adoption of the home rule amendment that year Findlay voted under the Ball law and piled up a majority of 803 against the home rule saloons. Last fall, on the statewide vote, the city increased her dry majority to 524.

VIGOROUS ENGLISH
CONCERNING SALOONSConvict Editor Expresses Views on Booze.

Columbus, O.—(Special.)—For a number of years a weekly newspaper has been published in the Ohio penitentiary. A new editor is now on the job, as the old one had served his term and is out. Some one asked the new editor for an expression on the saloon, and here is an extract from his reply:

"Is the victim of the rattlesnake's venom in favor of the rattlesnake? Is the poor devil whose home, loved ones, and worldly possessions have been swept away by the devastating tornado very much in favor of the tornado? We should think not. That is exactly our attitude with reference to the saloon. It has been the curse of our existence. If it were not for the saloon, the chances are we would not be here. Some day the taxpayers of Ohio will wake up to the immense burden of taxation imposed on them by the liquor traffic. They will then do away with the awful curse. If people are sincere in wishing protection from crime, and if they are sincere in wishing to save young men from becoming criminals, the quickest way they can get these things is to abolish the saloon."

WANTS NAMES OF BOYS

Distilling Company Evidently Wants to Create New Trade.

Fairmont, Minn.—(Special.)—The Sentinel of this place publishes a letter written by the Hollister Distilling company of St. Paul to a local mail carrier. The letter asks the mail carrier for the names of the boys in his town and on the rural routes. He promises to send him some choice liquors if he will send in a good list of boys. The letter closes with this sentence: "Get the postmaster to help you, also the bank cashier and the express agent."

It is a safe guess that the distilling company has hatched some scheme whereby it expects to make customers of these boys. It certainly shows its nerve by trying to use employees of Uncle Sam, as well as a banker and express agent, to secure the names.

City Employees On Water Wagon.

Stambridge, Vt.—(Special.)—Declaring there is no room on the city payroll for drunkards, Mayor W. C. McManis of this city has issued an order prohibiting the use of intoxicating liquors by employees of the various city departments. Violation of the order, the mayor says, will bring prompt dismissal.

Restoration of Palestine.

Palestine is essentially an agricultural country, as it has absolutely no other resources, and in fact it supported a large population. But it should be understood that to restore it to its former prosperity would require considerable capital and a radical reform of government. Though the Israelites came out of the very productive land of Egypt, their destination was described as a land flowing with milk and honey. This statement is most interesting in the light of facts concerning the production of honey here. It is well known to botanists that Palestine is the meeting place of flora of three different continents, and this circumstance combined with the varied altitudes produces a condition most favorable to bee culture.—Scientific American.
